The Milestones 1980 staff would like to thank Hap Minhinnett, Mrs. Pennington, Mrs. Mathes-Lindsey and her photography class for their photographs. The double-exposure photograph of Tandy Beal on page twenty-four is the work of Elizabeth McBride Smith; the photograph of Ms. Beal as "Crazy Jane" on page twenty-five is by Mark Wagner. Professional portraits and candid shots are by Togue Uchida Studios; other color by Coleman Custom Color.

Special thanks also go to Mr. Bill Benson and Ralph Langreck for their assistance with the cover.
Milestones 1980 was printed by Herff-Jones Yearbooks, Montgomery, Alabama.

Dedicated to Mrs. Moran

To Harpeth Hall students, Mrs. Pat Moran is more than merely a member of the faculty. In her twenty-four years at Harpeth Hall, Mrs. Moran has taught physical education and hygiene to all classes. She has coached various basketball and volleyball teams in both the Upper and Middle Schools and has been the favorite choice of many girls as an advisor.

Mrs. Moran attended Ward-Belmont for two years, her second being the year that it closed. She finished her undergraduate work at George Peabody College and later completed her master's degree.

During the opening years of Harpeth Hall, Mrs. Moran worked with the basketball program on Saturdays at a time when the school had no gym. Now, in addition to her invaluable coaching at Harpeth Hall, she works part time in the women's basketball program at Vanderbilt and directs a summer camp.

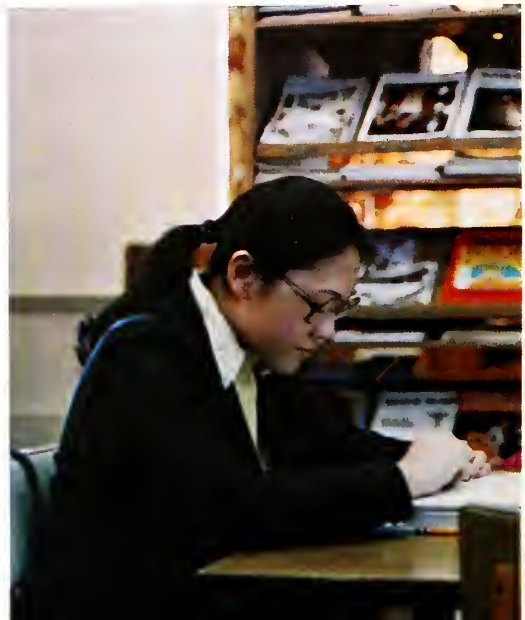

Therefore, for the many long hours you have spent at school, for the special personality that makes others appreciate you so, and for the friendly smile you display each day, we dedicate the Milestones 1980, Mrs. Moran, to you.

First period math classes,
Fifth period study halls,
Duds days,
Fire drills,
Senior house munchies,
Eighth grade combo pictures,
Gym laps, sit-ups, and winning trophies.
Term papers and their corrections,
Report cards, spring vacation tans,
The agony of exams.
The thrill of snow days.

Somewhere between "below-the-knee kilts" and "faded plaid,"
The laughter, the tears, the struggles, and the achievements
Of each of these memories are combined with the dreams
And smiles of the past year—Harpeth Hall 1980.

All shared hand-in-hand experiences.

Wisdom was passed on . . .

And individuals were allowed to be their own pacesetters.

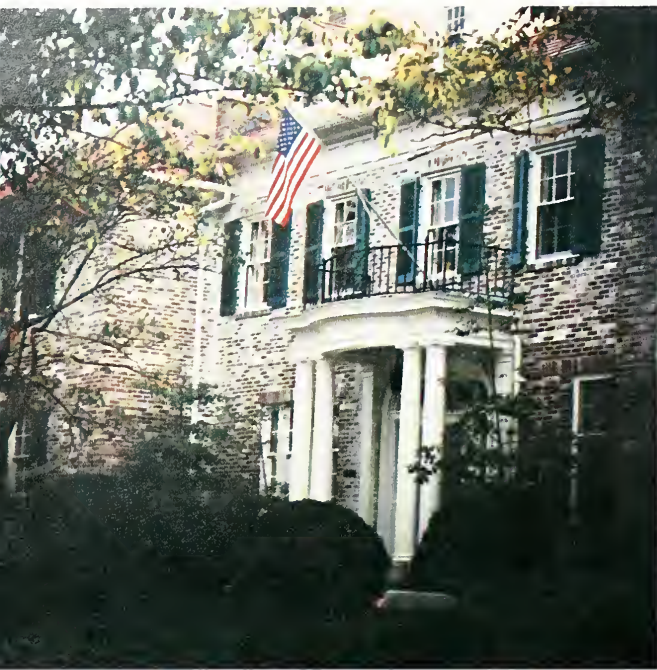

Harpeth Hall 1980 was a year for reaching out.

Some things were left to be accepted without change ...

While other areas open for growth were to be challenged.

Realizing and practicing the difference between the two made Harpeth Hall 1980 a year for becoming.

Those who reached out ...

... encountered unique
experiences and new faces ...

Days for Becoming ...

First Semester

"Summer's over! Get out the plaid skirt and saddle oxfords! Finish your summer reading! Memorize your new school schedule!" Before one knows it, she is back to an eight hour day and to nights of homework. The senior play, the Student Council dance, A.F.S. celebrations, duds day, and bake sales all occupy the student's time. The first semester of the 1979-1980 school year started in much the same way as most years do, and anticipation was high for the beginning of activities.

Miss Fessey Graduates to Upper School

When Middle School Honor Day rolled around last year for the eighth grade class, one extra name was added to the list. The director herself, Miss Polly Fessey, earned her diploma and advanced to the Upper School with a brand new freshman class. However, she did not join the ranks of the average freshman upon arrival; after all, how many freshmen get to be headmistress for a year? Throughout the year as she carried out all her duties and assignments, the students and faculty appreciated her willingness to participate and her "open door policy" in getting to know all those with whom she came in contact. Her availability to all those with troubles, triumphs, or merely a "Hello" to share has endeared her to us all in the Upper School this year.

Senior Recognition Week

Senior Recognition Week marks the beginning of the senior class's journey toward graduation in the spring and is a time for the class to accept formally the responsibilities of leadership in the school.

In the senior assembly, Alice Graves presented the class and its motto "Be young, be foolish, be happy!" to Miss Fessey, who acknowledged both on behalf of Harpeth Hall.

Several class officers elaborated on the motto and its implications. In addition, each senior received her blue and white beanie symbolizing her position in the school. The class closed the assembly by singing its class song.

The senior devotional also took place during this week with Lisa Rudolph, class chaplain, speaking on the importance of the giving and the receiving of friendship. In her explanation to the students of what a true friend should be, Lisa offered suggestions to help them become better friends.

Senior week was a refreshing way for the Class of 1980 to begin its last year at Harpeth Hall with enthusiasm and a sense of responsibility as well as joy.

Senior Play

Despite term papers, athletics, and the unexpectedly short time that the seniors had to practice, their senior play was both interesting and amusing. The play opened in the year 2000 with Annis and an elderly Dr. Marney reminiscing about the Class of '80. They discover what various individuals have been doing since graduation. Many of their occupations are surprising—ranging from housewives and judges to bartenders and Dallas cowboy cheerleaders! Although the practice schedule was hectic, the class demonstrated enthusiastic involvement as the girls organized their scenes, learned harem dances, and memorized their lines. The seniors of '80 seem to have quite a future according to this presentation.

Fall Combo

One of the major social events of every school year is the annual fall combo. This year's combo on November fourteenth was basically the same as those of years past; however, the Student Council kept the theme as a surprise for the first time. After collecting old combo pictures from students, the Student Council revealed the theme, "combo catalogue." Records were hung from the ceiling to develop further the theme. The band, Medusa, provided an excellent selection of dancing music. Finally, however, dancing shoes were put away in anticipation of the spring prom which was only a few months away.

Grandmothers' Tea

In keeping with tradition, the Middle School students gathered in the Sheridan Gallery this fall to entertain their grandmothers or other adult friends. The entire seventh and eighth grade classes performed selections from The Sound of Music. Sung from the steps of the gallery and directed by Mrs. Berry, the songs entertained the guests and sparked interest in the play. The grandmothers' tea, put on with the aid of the Mothers' Auxillary, is a time for the girls to "show off" their grandmothers and their school.

Tandy Beal

Harpeth Hall had the good fortune to host Tandy Beal as an artist-in-residence for an entire week in October. Ms. Beal came to Harpeth Hall as a result of a grant awarded by the Tennessee Performing Arts Commission, the United States Office of Education, and the National Endowment for the Arts. Tandy formed her own modern dance company in 1971. The company, which is based in California, began touring in 1975. A unique feature of this dance company is that it performs with live music. Jon Scoville, a multi-talented musician, writes and performs most of the music.

During her stay at Harpeth Hall, Tandy taught several classes for students each day and master classes for the general public each evening. This variety of offerings gave her an opportunity to deal with all levels of dance experience. In these classes she emphasized the importance of space. By caring for things around oneself and projecting this feeling to others, Tandy feels that a dancer can better perfect her skills.

In her concert on Friday, October 19, Tandy danced pieces ranging from theatrical and experimental to comical and light. By combining such a range of moods and techniques, Tandy feels that she can communicate to a broader and more varied audience.

When asked about her brief stay at Harpeth Hall, Tandy replied that it had been a "special experience" for her. The warmth and openness of the students as well as the quality of Harpeth Hall's dance program was, she felt, unique.

Harpeth Hall has truly benefited from such an experience, becoming even more inspired toward excellence in dance as a result of Tandy's example of devotion and dedication. She is not only a remarkable dancer, but also a remarkable person with a sparkling personality and an outstanding love for people.

A.F.S. Celebrations in Many Lands

Many schools have French and Spanish clubs, but a Chinese-German-Greek-Swedish-and-many-other-countries club is something special! Over one hundred students at Harpeth Hall belong to the American Field Service Club, a chapter of an international foreign exchange organization. This program makes arrangements so that students can stay in different countries or in different regions within their own countries through a domestic exchange. In order to participate in this enormous club each chapter has to pay a membership fee. At Harpeth Hall, the principal fund-raiser is the annual "Celebrations in Many Lands," held at school one night in the fall. Parents, friends, and other students visit almost twenty rooms, each decorated by students to resemble a certain country. Despite complaints of over-stuffed stomachs, everyone seems to enjoy the celebration.

During the spring the club holds a Spring Weekend. Foreign students from all over Tennessee come and stay in homes of Harpeth Hall students for the weekend to sight-see and enjoy parties and dinners while meeting other foreign students.

This year we have two foreign students—Electra Georgallides and Pam Goode. In addition, three Harpeth Hall students—Beth Ely, Rachel Tidman, and Allison Shaffner—had a chance to travel elsewhere last summer.

Varsity Cross Country

Every day after school more than a dozen dedicated girls can be found in the park stretching, running over distances, and sprinting short distances. According to their coach Mr. Kramer, this year's cross country team is probably the strongest team Harpeth Hall has ever had. He feels "the girls have been extremely dedicated and mature in their attitude, especially in the team's response to the situation with the regionals." The cross country dual meets and invitational meets in Alabama and Atlanta. On November 24, Ginger Sullivan, Sloan Burton, Lynn Kitchel, Jeanie Bass, Katie Groos, and Kathy McPherson participated in the A.A.U. National Cross Country Meet at Raleigh, North Carolina. Out of twenty-one teams, Harpeth Hall placed tenth; and Ginger, Jeanie, and Lynn ran particularly well. This achievement is especially exciting because ours was one of the few teams which was composed entirely of individuals from the same school.

Varsity Volleyball

After many hours of practice and conditioning under new coach Mrs. Susan Russ, the varsity volleyball team truly earned its 19-4 record. Throughout the season the team became known as "the team to beat" in its district. After a discouraging defeat to Franklin Road Academy in the Franklin Road Invitational Tournament, the team recovered and finished with a winning season. In post-season play the Honeybears won second place in the District Tournament after losing to Hillsboro as Laurie Smith made the all-tournament team. After a week of offensive practice the players went to the Regionals, where the team was once again runner-up to Hillsboro. Laurie Smith and Noni Dale were selected to the all-tournament Regional team. With only one senior, Allison Mills, on the team this year, the Honeybears had an especially impressive season.

Varsity Hockey

The hockey coach this year was a Harpeth Hall alumna, Tiger Lee Williams. She did a fine job and was, according to goalie Melissa Bradford, "great. She really taught us a lot about the sport."

Due to the lack of local high school hockey teams, the Honeybears played both their games against the Vanderbilt women's team. However, experience in playing a college team will be extremely valuable to team members' improvement in later years.

The team was composed mostly of juniors and seniors, with Peggy and Sue Adams as inners on the front line. (Reports have it that their striking resemblance was often used to dupe the opposition.) Sharon Pendergrass and Michele Probst alternated playing center forward. Trilby Williams and Amanda Berry alternated playing wing, and Cammie Cheek and Jeanette James took turns playing both wing and inner. At defense were Linda Peterson as center halfback, Lynn McNally and Andree Akers as fullbacks, and Melissa Bradford and occasionally sophomore Julia Strayhorn as goalie.

Even though the team had a rough season this year, the players hope to be more successful next year. The team would like to thank Mrs. Williams' husband Mr. Brad Williams for coming to all of its games and hopes to see much larger crowds next year.

Varsity Basketball

For two out of the last three years, the Harpeth Hall Varsity basketball team has enjoyed a winning season with a 15-14 record. Only three of the fourteen losses were to teams in our district. For the second year in a row, the Honeybears finished second in District 9-AA, losing this year to Waverly, an undefeated team. One of the original aims for the year was to qualify for the Regional Tournament, a goal which the team accomplished, resulting in more than the mere satisfaction of a winning season.

Coach Steve Kramer is especially proud of three girls who were honored for their outstanding play. Ann Webb Betty and Melissa Hayes made the District 9-AA All-Tournament Team. Melissa Hayes also made the All-District Team as well as All-City Third Team. Tracey Hill was given honorable mention for the All-City line-up.

Working alongside Mr. Kramer were Mr. Byrd and Mrs. Hunter, who helped with statistics. The starting line-up consisted of Melissa Hayes, Ann Webb Betty, and Tracey Hill; Lisa Meyer, Melanie Patterson, Helen Berry, and Lisa Crockett shared the other two starting positions.

Since all but one player, Melissa Hayes, will be returning next year, the coaches are optimistic about the possibilities for next year. With continued hard work and practice, Harpeth Hall may once again enjoy a winning season in 1980-81.

Student Council Activities

During the first semester, the Student Council sponsored a wide variety of activities designed simply for the enjoyment of the student body.

The year began with an entertaining Student Council orientation skit based on the Pink Panther. The regular school year assembly schedule started with a production of "Let's Make a Deal" starring Martha Evers as Monte Hall. As a result of audience participation and competition, the sophomore class won a moonlight dance at the Fall Combo. Later, the Council members displayed their theatrical and musical talents at Christmas when they went caroling in the halls.

The Student Council sponsored a Duds Day first semester and sold candy during lunch. However, the creative streak in these girls really showed when they devised "Braids Day" and "Mickey Mouse Day." Many know that Mickey is fifty years old; it seemed only natural that everyone should have the opportunity to dress up as Mickey and then have birthday cake at lunch. The Student Council decided to have a day when everyone could braid her hair and then be judged on categories such as most braids, prettiest braids, and funniest braids.

When asked for comments on the Student Council's activities of 1979, Andree Akers said that the Council members had a lot of fun working together and that they only wished that everyone would participate in Council-sponsored activities so that all could share in the fun.

Middle School Candid

The Sound of Music

On December 7th and 8th the Drama and Glee Clubs presented Rodgers and Hammerstein's The Sound of Music. After the cast of over eighty students from Harpeth Hall and surrounding schools spent two months rehearsing, their effort was rewarded by an enthusiastic audience each night.

Although the story of Maria Rainer is familiar, the sensitive characterizations and inspiring songs of the familiar cast members added new dimensions to the play. Suzie Herbert portrayed Maria and Hillwood's Steve Adkerson portrayed Captain Georg von Trapp. Other supporting cast members included Holly Zimmerman as the Mother Abbess, Kelly Wellman as the Baroness Schraeder, Susan McAdams as Liesl, Rob Daugherty of MBA as Uncle Max, and Richard Wright of MBA as Rolf. The Children's Chorus and the Nun's Chorus directed by Mrs. Berry, along with an orchestra sextet, enhanced the atmosphere of the play.

Mr. Bradfield and Mrs. Charney supported the play by directing set construction. The greatest support, however, came from Mrs. Davis, drama director, and Mrs. Berry, who should be commended for producing such an imaginative and effective musical.

Winterim

Each year students at Harpeth Hall eagerly look forward to Winterim programs in January. At registration each student receives a booklet describing the different activities offered during this month. These activities generally vary a great deal depending on a student's age group. Most freshmen and sophomores participate in on-campus programs which range from special art classes such as architectural design and the art of cake decorating and quilting to drama classes such as the art of stagecraft and creative dramatics. In addition to these, physical fitness classes are offered as well as special classes dealing with law, philosophy, math and computer techniques. Remedial classes are also available at this time for students desiring extra help in certain areas. Juniors and seniors have the opportunity to participate in off-campus programs. This year two major trips were offered to France and England. Besides being able to take these trips, many students traveled within the United States through the American Field Service exchange program. Some students worked in Washington D.C. at several congressmen's offices. Other off-campus programs included the workstudy programs, in which juniors and seniors had the opportunity to participate in hospital-related activities involved with patients and lab-work. There were many student-teaching programs available as well as special education programs. Some students investigated other aspects of the community such as the music industry, journalism, biomedical engineering, and catering. Others attended various classes in art, music, and dance with a trip to New York City.

Often during the other parts of the year, students may neglect special talents and interests as a result of more important academic pressures. Winterim is a time for each student to approach these interests in a constructive manner. Finally, it is an exciting and challenging program which enriches the academic experience at Harpeth Hall.

Winterim

Middle School Interim

This year during one week in January, the Middle School participated in its Interim program. During this time, students had opportunities to take exciting and challenging courses in a variety of different areas. Teachers offered classes such as commercial art, silk screening, sketching, glass etching, patchwork, needlepoint, and sewing. In addition to on-campus classes, girls were able to leave campus to participate in a kindergarten workshop in which they spent mornings working with children at St. George's school. Some students also saw the State Legislature in session. Other classes included cooking, computer games, and Poe mystery theater. In addition to these classes, students could also participate in ice skating, racquetball, or math oriented courses. Thus, Interim gave students the chance to develop new interests in a low pressure environment.

The Hobbit

On March sixth and seventh, the Harpeth Hall Middle School presented Tolkien's The Hobbit. Under the direction of Mrs. Berry, Mrs. Williams, and Mr. Lauderdale and with the help of Dr. Iano and Mrs. Lee, the group did a remarkable job portraying this well-known work. The leading parts of Gandalf the wizard and of Bilbo Baggins were played by Suzanne Bolch and Jennifer Broadhurst. In addition, over thirty girls played the parts of elves, goblins, and other mysterious characters whom Bilbo meets during his adventures. As well as working hard on songs and dances for the play, this group also created its own scenery and costumes. Finally, after working for six weeks, the group produced a very enjoyable performance.

Cum Laude

National Merit Finalists

Faculty at Play

"What's a mad scientist doing in a Coke commercial?"

The fountain is flowing.

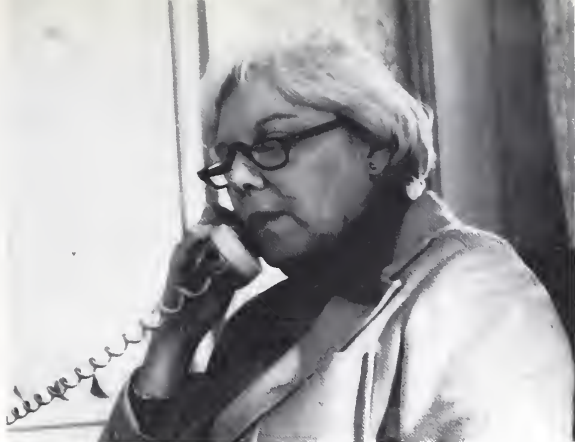

"Polly, I can't talk right now. The photographers are here."

Sheer energy!

King of the Hall ...

"No! You can't make me go to geometry!"

"Double, double, toil and trouble . . ."

"An atom is so small . . ."

Second Semester

After an exciting January many Harpeth Hall students found it difficult to settle into another semester of schoolwork with spring break, the prom, and summer holidays yet to come. However, term papers, bibliography projects, and a new eight weeks brought back the normal school routine. Spring fever set in quickly when the Harpeth Hall sun worshippers appeared. Along with the new spring restlessness, anticipations of graduation, step-singing, and All-Club Picnic steadily mounted. Preparations for the ending of the school year became apparent with officer elections and with announcements concerning exam schedules and song practices. The '79-'80 school year finally drew to a close in late May, with eager underclassmen getting out after their final exams and the class of 1980 singing its class song for the last time.

Pam and Electra

This year Harpeth Hall had two special students, Pam Goode and Electra Georgallides. These girls attended Harpeth Hall as a part of an American Field Service experience in the United States. Both girls underwent a great number of changes and adjustments. Unlike Pam, who faced no language barrier, Electra had to learn English. Another adjustment for both girls was that to Harpeth Hall. Each found the school academically challenging. For Pam, however, it seemed very similar to the private all-girls' school she attended in New Zealand. Electra, on the other hand, found it very different from her school in Cyprus where students take sixteen courses and attend classes either in the morning or the afternoon. As well as adjusting to the academic aspects of school life, the girls had to adapt socially. Both found our concept of dating very different by comparison to that of their homes, where people enjoy activities more in groups rather than in pairs. They also noticed that people in the United States drive more frequently than they walk or bicycle. In addition to these changes, both girls became parts of new families, where new lifestyles and environments challenged them. Finally, both Pam and Electra found their year in the United States a valuable experience during which they grew in awareness about themselves and the world.

Varsity Golf

In spite of its size, the 1979-80 varsity golf team has proved to be a powerhouse in the NIL. Coached by Middle School teacher Miss Reed, Lissa Bradford and Grace Keeble have won all of their matches in the district and outside of it as well. Giving up only one-half point to Saint Cecilia, they composed a spectacular record. After their district wins, the girls won the Regionals on May 13 to continue Harpeth Hall's domination of golf in this area, and placed third in the state.

Varsity Tennis

Coached by Miss Patty Chadwell, the Harpeth Hall tennis team of 1979-80 completed an excellent season. The first eight players on the team were Trisha First, Edie Carell (captain), Hilary Warren, Helen Berry, Beth Guthrie, Carey Stevens, Ashley Wilk, and Emme Nelson. The combined efforts of these girls led Harpeth Hall to victory in each of its district matches. In addition to its superior district play, the team won the Rotary Tournament at Chattanooga, where the team came away not only with the first place trophy but also with the satisfaction of defeating Girls Preparatory School, the only team to beat Harpeth Hall in regular season play. The team finished second in the state after winning the Regionals and the NIL Championship.

Varsity Track

The Harpeth Hall track team is a special group of dedicated athletes who not only train and compete seriously but also enjoy the fun of running, talking, and laughing with teammates. Every day after school and on weekends this group of track stars practices distance running, sprints, passing the baton, hurdling, the high and long jumps, and the shot put and discus. When they do not practice together, they must practice by themselves; track is a sport in which one must exercise his muscles daily in order to stay in shape.

All the girls seem to enjoy the challenge of track; they have won the city title in the Optimist Relays as well as first place AA Division in the region and the state.

Varsity Swimming

One of the smallest teams at Harpeth Hall but certainly one of the most often victorious, Harpeth Hall's swim team proved its might at all three of its major meets this year.

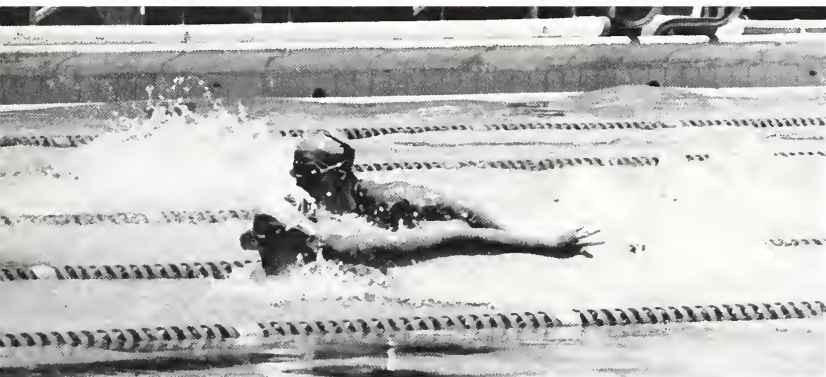

Claiming the first place trophy at the Emory Invitational Interscholastic meet in Atlanta, many Harpeth Hall individuals also placed—Tracy Caulkins, Macie Phillips, Karinne Miller, and Rae Gregg.

Also in February was another victorious meet, with Harpeth Hall again ranking first and Ellen Smith winning the diving division. The team also won the U.T. meet in Knoxville.

Team members for the 1979-80 year included Tracy Caulkins, Macie Phillips, Jessica Ward, Karinne Miller, Allison Russell, Ellen Smith, Beth Clark, Rae Gregg, and Diane Corwin.

Salute to Tracy Caulkins

Tracy Caulkins has received in 1978 the Sullivan Award for outstanding female athlete in the world and the 1978 Sportswoman of the Year Award, given in Moscow. In addition, the International Sportswriters' Association declared Tracy the top female athlete in the world. Upon participating in the World Championships, she received the Politica Award for being an outstanding competitor along with bringing home five gold medals, an accomplishment no other swimmer had ever achieved.

Averaging about five and a half hours of practice in the water each day, Tracy's schedule is hardly comparable to the patterns most Harpeth Hall girls follow. Such a stringent schedule of workouts leaves little time for the pursuit of other hobbies. Yet Tracy seems to be a very interested student with a steady record of good grades.

Although she had talent before Harpeth Hall ever met her, most of her success has come since she entered as a sixth grader. When only thirteen, Tracy broke her first American record. At the 1978 National Championships, she broke her first world record in the 200 Individual Medley, triggering a string of victories including the breaking of three more world records that summer. She has continued to amaze the world ever since.

Of course, Tracy is disappointed about the boycott, to the 1980 Olympic Games, she understands that she must accept the fact and go on toward her goals. Known to the Nashville community and the U.S.A. as the "top female athlete," she is known to Harpeth Hall also as just "Tracy" ... and that's enough.

George Washington

On March 4, a George Washington birthday celebration was held, as it is every year at Harpeth Hall, to honor our first President. The annual pageant presented by the freshmen includes many customs which were used for this celebration at Ward Belmont.

The celebration this year included the minuet, the sailor dance, soldier marches, and a ballet duet, all saluting George, Martha Evers, and Martha, Virginia Calton.

Although everyone involved in the celebration worked hard, Miss Patty Chadwell showed special dedication. She directs the program each year despite complaining freshmen and tight schedules. This year the class and Miss Patty worked together to make the George Washington celebration a success and to preserve a long-standing tradition.

Student Council Activities

Throughout the second semester, the Student Council planned many enjoyable activities for the school. During Winterim a special student council composed solely of freshmen and sophomores served in place of the junior and senior members who were working off-campus. On Valentine's Day, the Council set up a booth at which the students could design valentines for each other. Also during the semester, the Student Council showed two very popular films, "The Turning Point" and "The Champ" to the students for a very small charge.

Throughout the winter and spring the council offered many delicious things to eat. On many cold mornings they served hot chocolate, and later in the spring months they sold Krispy Kreme doughnuts. They also sold candy during lunch each day. The day school was dismissed for spring vacation, the council surprised the students and faculty with a huge "spring break cake" which was instantly devoured. Other Student Council projects included personality of the month, a paper drive, a doughnut eating contest, the student council exchange with M.B.A., and Falkhaskjaks Day.

For the second semester Lisa Ezell was elected freshman representative to the Council. Thanks to their innovative ideas, the Student Council packed the second semester with fun-filled activities.

Most Fun!

Junior Prom

With the hard work of both Libs Schlater, junior class president, and the junior class, the April twenty-sixth Junior Prom was a success. Class members worked hard transporting props to the gym and decorating the walls with balloons and yellow and white streamers. All danced and enjoyed the music of the White Animals.

Both the junior class officers and the seniors were presented through two elegant French doors decorated with yellow and white streamers. Students and teachers enjoyed having their photographs made in a picturesque porch swing. The juniors made the prom more enjoyable by providing cookies and punch as refreshments. After the Prom, juniors and seniors attended a breakfast at the home of Gina Klein as an end to a romantic, memorable evening provided by the juniors for the honor of the seniors.

Composition: Red and Green

A few weeks after spring break, Harpeth Hall and M.B.A. joined their creative forces to produce a week of fine arts and celebration entitled "Composition: Red and Green."

The festivities began on Tuesday night, April 15, at M.B.A. The M.B.A. Glee Club, under the direction of Mr. Gerald Arthur, and the Harpeth Hall Glee Club, under the direction of Mrs. Ray Berry, sang classical and popular selections both separately and together.

A reception in the Patrick Wilson Library followed, and several students performed instrumental solos as background music. Student art was displayed both at Harpeth Hall and M.B.A.

Friday afternoon, April 18, the entire M.B.A. student body and faculty arrived at Harpeth Hall for a picnic lunch and an outdoor concert. Student groups performed rock, folk, and popular music as well as creative dramatics to make the outing a success.

Friday and Saturday nights, the Drama Club, under the direction of Mrs. Sandra Davis, presented Arsenic and Old Lace. As the tremendously successful week drew to a close, many girls expressed the hope that "Composition: Red and Green" would become an annual event.

Dance Concert

After a semester of hard work and dedication, the dance clubs returned to school in January anticipating the choreography that needed to be done. The semester passed as did numerous rehearsals and hours of work. Thurs, on May 9 and 19, the dance clubs presented the 1980 Spring Dance Concert, a dazzling hour and a half of jazz, modern dance, tap, and ballet.

This year's production amazed audiences as it surpassed concerts of the two previous years in the history of dance at Harpeth Hall. Not only was the level of skill even higher than that of previous years (due to the fact that club auditions were held this year for the first time), but also the special effects were extravagant. Modern I used helium balloons and slides in a sustained piece called "Clouds." A bag dance called "Color Chaos" also added variety to the evening. The ballet club, a new addition this year under the direction of Mrs. Hamilton, performed an inspirational piece as did Modern II in its interpretation of "Miracles." Mrs. Gentry and Mrs. Hamilton danced a thrilling number to a song from The Wiz. In addition, each of their jazz clubs displayed its skills in exhilarating numbers. The show ended, as is tradition, with the tap club in a presentation of a day at the beach.

After Saturday night's performance, costumes were put away until next spring. However, dance at Harpeth Hall did not conclude for the year with the final curtain call. Leslie Mullins has also offered dance courses during the summer to the Harpeth Hall community. Under her direction and thanks to her dedication, Harpeth Hall dance has blossomed into a diversified program at both beginning and advanced levels.

FALKHASMJAKS-KAKASAJHMALL Day

On May 7, the Student Council members surprised the Upper School when in place of a speaker on the Iranian crisis, they arrived in assembly dressed as Arabs. Running and screaming down the aisles with toy machine guns, the Council ordered everyone to march outside and into four buses which transported the students and faculty to Edwin Warner Park. There, everyone ate lunch and then participated in various games involving competition among classes and faculty. Contests included a scavenger hunt, sack race, egg toss, an obstacle course, and a pie-eating contest. Everyone was able to join in the shaving cream fight, too.

The day, now known as FALKHASMJAKS-KAKASAJHMALL Day, was initiated by the 1976-77 Student Council and has only been done by two council groups. Everyone enjoyed the afternoon thoroughly and hopes the tradition will continue.

All-Club Picnic

At All-Club Picnic, a very memorable occasion for many Harpeth Hall girls, student officers and faculty announce awards, present skits, and witness the initiation of new Student Council officers. The listless spring weather reminds everyone of the ending school year, upcoming exams, and the eventual step-singing and graduation exercises.

However, this year, Morrison Gym replaced the usual hot, muggy atmosphere for the picnic because of rain. Yet the enthusiasm and sentimentality of the students still remained in the announcement of the year-long club competition results and the traditional club song contest. Eccowasin won for another year in overall inter-club competition for the highest total of points in athletics, scholarship, citizenship, and respect for rules and regulations while Angkor won for a second straight year in the song contest. Classes and clubs also presented spirit awards to those members who had shown the greatest enthusiasm and willingness to participate throughout the year.

Along with the presentation of numerous other awards both in scholarship and athletics and the presentation of the Sophie Dobson blankets and medals, Miss Fessey announced the recipient of the Citizenship Bracelet and the Lady of the Hall. Also, smaller clubs and organizations gave honors such as the newly-established Mathes-Charney Art Award.

Of all the medals, blankets, and certificates awarded at All-Club Picnic, among the most deserving individuals were those teachers including Dr. Morrison, Mr. Kramer, Dr. Thomas, Dr. Mills, Miss Riddle, and Mrs. Emerson and American Field Service students Pam Goode and Electra Georgallides who will be leaving next year.

Middle School Honor Day

To the eighth grade class at Harpeth Hall, Honor Day marks a very significant time in life: the graduation from the Middle School to the Upper School. This year's Honor Day proved very special because Mr. David E. Wood, Harpeth Hall's new headmaster for next year, gave the opening address. As an Honor Day tradition, the seventh grade chorus performed two songs dedicated to the graduating eighth grade. Mrs. Michael Maples, Interim Director of the Middle School, then awarded honors to students for excellence in various areas. For class spirit, awards were given to Anne Moore, Leigh Horton, and Holly Conner. Becky Lee received the award established by the Class of 1978 to be given to the sixth grader who best exemplifies the theme of live, love, and laugh. Also, many students were recognized for excellence in attendance and academics. Liz Buchanan received the Latin award, and Suzanne Bolch and Beth McPherson were awarded certificates for their participation in the State Math Contest, Beth placing eighth in Algebra I. Angkor and Eccowasin tied for the sports trophy, while Triad received the citizenship cup. Diplomas were then awarded, and afterwards, Mrs. Jeanne Zerfoss presented Mrs. Maples with a gift on behalf of the school Board of Trustees for outstanding direction of the Middle School for the 1979-80 school year. Although for many students Honor Day simply marked the end of another school year, to the eighth grade, it represented the beginning of new and different challenges in the years to come.

Senior Banquet

This year's Senior Banquet provided a chance for the Class of 1980 as well as the Upper School faculty and staff to enjoy a time of relaxation together. The catered event was held at the Sugartree clubhouse. Norda Aguila surprised the class with collages which included pictures dating from its sixth grade year through its senior year. In addition, each person received a booklet containing the class's last will and testaments and pet peeves. Another surprise came when the entertainment started. The class heard Elizabeth Oman sing for the first time, accompanied by Suzie Ragsdale. Rachel Tidman amused the crowd with her karate feats. Finally, as they snapped pictures and signed booklets, the Class of 1980 and the faculty parted once again in anticipation of graduation.

Step Singing

At one of Harpeth Hall's most impressive traditions, the junior and senior classes assembled to pay tribute to the Lady of the Hall and her attendants. Lady of the Hall, the senior chosen as most representative of the school's ideals, was crowned amidst an array of magnolia leaves and ivy. Her court consisted of four girls, one from each class, who were considered by their classmates to be outstanding in character.

After the presentation of Andree, the junior and senior classes, led by their respective officers, took their places to prepare to sing. The upcoming senior officers arranged the Daisy Chain to form "1980" on the front lawn. Afterwards, the seniors sang their class song for this year and their junior song from last year which expressed their feelings regarding graduation and the movement of time. The juniors then sang their own song. Alice Graves, president of the Class of 1980, handed down the senior diary and books to Denise Smith, 1981 class president. After both classes wished each other well, the senior class recited the pledge to uphold and improve the standards of Harpeth Hall. Everyone then stood to sing the Alma Mater, and the new senior class assumed its new privileges and responsibilities.

Lady of the Hall

Each year, the title of Lady of the Hall is given to the senior who best exemplifies the ideals of Harpeth Hall. Certainly, Andree Akers merits this honor. Throughout her years at Harpeth Hall, Andree has embodied the qualities of responsibility, creativity, enthusiasm, and dedication. Her accomplishments are numerous: treasurer of her freshman class, a member of the Student Council in her sophomore year, president of her junior class, and this year president of the Student Council and a member of the Presidents' Council for the second year. As Student Council president, Andree has designed various assemblies, projects, and activities which have united the student body in a very special way.

Because Harpeth Hall has recognized and admired these characteristics in Andree, the school has honored her accordingly with the title of Lady of the Hall.

Katie Wray Award

Karen Ferrelli, this year's recipient of the Katie Wray Award, is an outstanding student not only in her scholarship but also in her participation in the school community.

During her freshman year, she served on the Student Council; and in later years, she participated in Varsity Hockey, Cross Country, French and Latin Clubs, cheerleading, and the annual staff. Elected to both Cum Laude and Mu Alpha Theta her junior year, Karen later served as the Milestones photography editor.

The tremendous energy and enthusiasm with which Karen approaches a great number of interests is her most impressive quality. Her love of learning and interest in academics have resulted in her success in all subjects and in frequent independent pursuits outside the classroom.

In addition to the Katie Wray Award, Karen received the Lucy Fountain Award for her high average and interest in French and the Presidents' Council Award for her merit in English. She was also the recipient of a Latin scholarship. Her grade point average earned her the honor of being a Benjamin Franklin scholar at the University of Pennsylvania next year.

While Karen has learned and benefited from Harpeth Hall, thus also the school has benefited from her involvement in Harpeth Hall and wishes Karen continued success in the years ahead.

Citizenship Bracelet

The Citizenship Bracelet, awarded to Beth Ely this year, is traditionally given to the senior with the highest number of citizenship points in her years in the Upper School. These points are awarded by class and club officers and sponsors, Student Council members, faculty, and other school leaders.

Beth has been active in many clubs at Harpeth Hall. She was a member of the Junior Classical League, serving as its vice-president her sophomore year, during which she was also class chaplain. A member of the French Club her last two years and of Penstaff all four years, Beth was Penstaff secretary her junior year. As a Milestones staff member for three years, she served as business manager this year. She has participated in the American Field Service and in a summer exchange program as well as being active in intramural sports.

In addition to club participation, Beth has also achieved much scholastically. She received the Sophie Dobson Award for academic excellence her freshman year and was a member of Mu Alpha Theta and the Cum Laude society.

Having received the Sewanee Club Award as a junior for outstanding character and citizenship, Beth certainly has earned the Citizenship Bracelet. She will enter Vanderbilt in the fall to begin a promising future.

There is a future and a promise of dreams,
Times full of fears, but there's love in between.
It's not so important that we know where we're going,
What really matters is to let our love keep growing.

CHORUS:

Here comes tomorrow, don't you let it slip away.
We can't stand still so let go of yesterday.
Here comes tomorrow, it's shining in our eyes,
Like a new day dawning, like a wonderful surprise.
Time keeps moving like a run-away wheel,
Situations changing, it's hard to know what's real.
With friends we can depend on, we won't ever be alone.
We have got something in a world to call our own.

Graduation

Each year, graduation is a special celebration of students' growth and development at Harpeth Hall. This year, the celebration of "becoming" through growth as an individual was most clearly emphasized in Miss Hensley's address to the graduates. Here, she stressed the idea of responsibility in one's approach to her life. Including the significance of creativity, she brought out the importance of each girl's acceptance of the consequences of her actions and her constant striving towards personal goals. Her parting appeal for individual thanksgiving for opportunities had special significance for each graduate approaching new experiences as well as the transition from one part of her development to the next. Nancy Graves also called for a celebration in seniors' recognition of how much they have benefited from their sense of class community.

Graduation was also a period of time for awarding outstanding individuals. One of the most important awards was the Dede Bullard Wallace Award, given to Miss Fessey for her exceptional performance this year as the interim headmistress.

With tremendously mixed emotions, the ceremony ended with the senior class song and the Alma Mater. Seniors parted with a different feeling of achievement mingled with a sense of loss and change. Finally, though, for each graduate the ceremony was a true celebration of her growing and becoming.

So far to go
So much to see
So much to know.
So far to go
And me to be.

I asked a child what she might be someday,
But she didn't understand the world's way.
So in the innocence of her youth she swore:
"I'll be me 'cause I can't be more."

But there's so far to go ...

As she grew she learned the world's demands,
But true to herself she took a stand.
She paid the cost but there's joy amid the pain,
And even now her dreams remain.

But there's so far to go ...

She plays her part but performs no fake act.
I hope someday I'll be like that.
And like that child, the future can't change me;
I'll be me 'cause I can't be more.

Now there's so far to go ...

Administration

Polly Fessey

This past July Miss Polly Fessey, Director of the Middle School, moved her desk to Souby Hall to serve as Harpeth Hall's interim headmistress. With Miss Fessey's leadership the administration continued to run smoothly. Miss Fessey greeted the students at registration with a smile and schedules for the coming year. Since then she has continued to support various Harpeth Hall activities, being always present at all sports and other extracurricular events. In spite of her work with both the faculty and the Presidents' Council, she still finds time to talk with students. When asked what she likes best about the Upper School, Miss Fessey replied, "I have enjoyed seeing my middle-schoolers grow into juniors and seniors. It's hard to believe they were ever our sixth graders." She commented that she has also enjoyed meeting girls that she has not known previously in addition to working more closely with the upper school faculty. As for the future of Harpeth Hall, Miss Fessey says, "I hope to see Harpeth Hall continue to progress and maintain its status as one of the finest girls' preparatory schools."

Dan Ellen Maples

Although the position of Director of the Middle School is a difficult one to fill, Mrs. Maples fulfilled her job this year with efficiency. Mrs. Maples is not new to Harpeth Hall. She was the Administrative Assistant last year when her duties included planning the interim program and sponsoring the Middle School Student Council. As interim director this year, she has the responsibility of overseeing any activities and projects which the Middle School undertakes. Although she acts as coordinator, she finds the cooperative faculty easy to work with and says that the school relatively "runs itself."

Mrs. Maples' past experiences have trained her well for her work at Harpeth Hall. Her work with physically handicapped children has made her sensitive to the potentially great learning capacity present in each student. Mrs. Maples considers Harpeth Hall girls to be very capable and promising, and her talents, sensitivity, and experience make her a substantial asset to the Middle School.

Janet Hensley

Without a doubt, Miss Hensley is an integral part of the administration at Harpeth Hall. Her many roles and duties involve constant interaction with students, faculty, and parents. As sponsor of the Student Council, she is responsible for taking disciplinary action against students, a duty which she does not enjoy. As a member of the Student-Faculty Committee, she helps to establish good relations between teachers and students. As faculty advisor to some students, Miss Hensley often counsels students who seek her advice. In addition, she is responsible for organizing assemblies, confirming special schedule changes, and finding substitute teachers (at 6:30 in the morning!). Finally, as Dean of Students, Miss Hensley devotes the greatest part of her time to the Winterim program, working on it eleven months out of the year. She arranges work-study programs and trips abroad for upperclassmen. In addition, she has always in the past arranged on-campus schedules for the underclassmen. However, this year the students arranged their own schedules, an experiment which Miss Hensley termed a tremendous success. Miss Hensley is not only a strong backbone of the structure of Harpeth Hall but also a woman of great ability and congeniality.

Penelope Mountfort

To most Harpeth Hall students, Miss Penny Mountfort (or Miss Penny, as she is more commonly known), is the lady who administers the standardized tests and entrance exams. However, these are only a few of her many responsibilities; Miss Penny also has the tremendous job of aiding the juniors and seniors in selecting a college or university. This task includes writing recommendations and evaluations as well as helping with financial aid forms. Miss Penny is also the person who fills out transcripts and determines each student's grade point average.

In order to help the juniors understand the college application and selection process, Miss Penny teaches a college information course; she attends many college conferences and hosts all of the visiting college representatives. Miss Penny does not spend all of her time, however, counseling the juniors and the seniors. She also finds time to help freshmen or sophomores with any problems they may face. Miss Penny is a vital part of Harpeth Hall without whom the school could not function efficiently.

Peggy Herring and Lucile McLean

Each day one can find Mrs. McLean in her office in Souby Hall, where she sells books and handles the school's finances. In addition to these duties, Mrs. McLean also teaches typing. However, this year Harpeth Hall's addition of a computer to print report cards has eliminated the need for copying them by hand and has thus given Mrs. McLean more time. Although some students fail to recognize the amount of effort Mrs. McLean puts into her work, all Harpeth Hall benefits from her capable management of the school's finances.

Few students realize the effort Miss Herring puts into her job as Director of Development and manager of the school's finances. Her job involves raising money for new equipment at Harpeth Hall. In addition to raising money, she plans the school's budget and makes sure that it is met. Although Miss Herring enjoys working with a variety of people, she regrets her lack of contact with students. However, she does get this opportunity at registration when she makes student and faculty ID cards. Miss Herring has been a vital part of Harpeth Hall for six years, and we hope that she will continue to remain so for many more.

Polly Nichols

Few people deal with responsibilities as demanding as those Mrs. Polly Nichols faces each day. Her job involves maintaining contact with all the Harpeth Hall alumnae. Her greatest efforts to keep track of graduates' activities are through the Harpeth Hall bi-annual journal. This publication links the activities and ideas of both past and present Harpeth Hall students. The countless memos, addresses, pictures, and newspaper clippings piled high on her desk indicate the enormous responsibilities she has. Although students do not see her often, Mrs. Nichols creates an important link between Harpeth Hall and its former students.

Student Council

This year the Student Council's aim has been greater student involvement in school activities. Under the supervision of Andrée Akers, the council has tried to plan activities in which the whole student body can participate. One of these activities was braid day, on which nearly all students wore braids to school and were awarded prizes for especially unusual arrangements. The girls also sponsored a Mickey Mouse Day, on which students celebrated the anniversary of this character's creation by dressing up. The council also tried to involve more individuals by encouraging student participation in the organization of the fall combo. In addition to these activities, the council organized the election of a group of students to act as the student council during January. This group has made students more aware of the Student Council's responsibilities and role in the school. Another major activity undertaken by this year's Student Council has been the sponsoring of movies. Through the selling of candy and raffle tickets, the group raised enough money to rent movies and show them on weekends. With their enthusiasm and careful planning, the Student Council members have been the center of the school's spirit. While many students see only the results of this dedicated group's efforts, the council is hard at work performing many unnoticed tasks to improve Harpeth Hall.

Milestones

Few people who read Milestones are aware of the work and thought behind each page. The majority of these few people are the members of the Milestones staff. For us the annual is more than a summary of the year's activities. Here is the product of the Friday afternoons and study halls spent with cropping wheels, layouts, and junk food as we worked together to capture a year in print and photographs.

Each of us has contributed time and energy through our writing, ideas, support, and even sometimes our ability to suppress some of our frustrations in order to work for a common goal.

We, the editors, staff, and sponsor, derive a strong feeling of accomplishment from our work; and yet our greatest reward comes from each of you. If for each of you these pages bring the past year alive, then we have been fully successful.

Logos II

Harpeth Hall's hardworking newspaper staff performs an extraordinary feat six times a year—the production of Logos II. This periodical presents original features, news events, and a world of sports to the student body. The goal of the Logos II staff is not merely to record happenings; the staff wishes to report events and to stimulate action.

The staff, the eight editors, the English teachers, Dr. Iano, and Mrs. Ward are constantly working on the publication of Logos II. These people must do the thinking, the writing, and the photography that leads up to the final typing of the articles and the eventual work of the printer. Despite all efforts to the contrary, the one great moral which the newspaper accepts is "Better late than never." What does the staff gain from all of this work? It produces a newspaper that is always improving and developing through the efforts of these creative people.

Penstaff

Girls with special talent in various forms of written expression are members of a select group at Harpeth Hall known as Penstaff. Started over sixteen years ago by Miss McMurry and former English Chairman Dr. Overholser, this group has continued to uphold its original objective of maintaining an interest in creative writing at Harpeth Hall.

Meeting weekly during lunch, the girls critique each other's work, helping each other to develop new literary skills. After many restless spring days spent in assembling poems and short stories submitted by both members and non-members, the Penstaff Club produces the annual literary magazine, Hallmarks.

This year the Penstaff fall skit entitled "Common Misconceptions about Penstaff" made many students more aware of the club's activities. Consequently, many girls submitted works to be judged for membership. New members were invited to join before Thanksgiving.

As well as admitting new members, the club kept up with Penstaff alumnae through letters. Also for the first time, the club reserved space for alumnae poems. Finally, this year, not only did Penstaff expand by adding new members, but also by maintaining contact with old club members.

Every year the senior class selects a theme and presents it during Senior Recognition Week. The Class of 1980 has picked the motto "Be young, be foolish, be happy." Class officers explained the choice and the meaning of this theme by defining "youth," "foolishness," and "happiness."

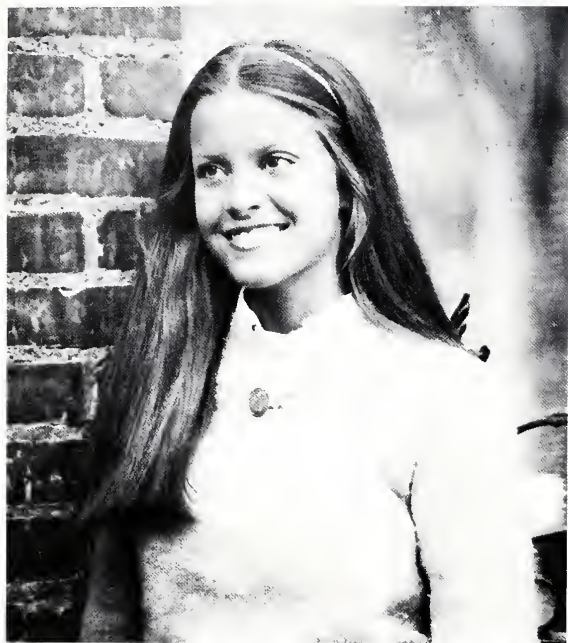

Youth was defined as being young at heart, foolishness as feeling free to do anything, and happiness as being able to enjoy life. Live life to the fullest, for only in this way can one enjoy it.

In becoming seniors, the class accepts many responsibilities toward the school and the underclassmen. The first of these is leadership, since seniors hold most of the major offices in the school. Another responsibility of seniors involves setting a good example for the juniors, sophomores, and freshmen. These underclassmen look up to the senior class for guidance, especially regarding the school's rules and regulations. By receiving their beanies, members of the Class of 1980 have officially accepted their responsibilities as the senior class at Harpeth Hall.

"A bird in the bush usually has a friend in there with him!"-The Milestones Editors.

Has another school year already passed? They can seem so repetitive: a new group of girls, the same traditions, emotions, and experiences. However, one unique quality or trait singles out each passing year from all the rest. In following the paths of every preceding class each girl has, in a sense, blazed her own trail. Striving for the same eventual destination, the girls have, in their singular ways, reached out and become.
